UP THE FIRE ESCAPE.

Fun in a Photograph Gallery—The McLain-O'Neill-Parsons Case.

A WARLIKE TURN IN AFFAIRS.

Mrs. Parsons' Perilous Climb up the Fire Escape—Three Men Closely Besieged—Utter Defeat and Capture of the Parsons Clan—More Developments To-day.

The controversy now at its height, between the McLain estate and J. C. O'Neill on one side, and Mrs. J. A. H. Parsons on the other, for the possession of the rooms occupied by the old Parsons photograph gallery, is attracting much attention, and yesterday it assumed an interesting, if not serious phase.

The circuit court, it will be remembered, decided the McLains were entitled to possession, and issued an order to that effect. During the morning, yesterday, Constable Alonzo St. Meyers had a number of men employed in removing the effects belonging to Mrs. Parsons.

The other side was not dismayed having applied to the supreme court of appeals at Charleston for a writ of certiorari to prevent the removal and ejectment of the Parsons clan from the rooms. Constable St. Meyers was made acquainted with the state of affairs, but would not desist in his work of removing the Parsons effects. Shortly after 11 o'clock, however, the writ arrived, and was immediately served on the constable, compelling him to desist.

Mr. McLain did not stand in awe of the law, and started out on an Egyptian campaign in the afternoon. Mr. James A. Gordon, of Washington, Pa., who is a brother of Mrs. Parsons, H. B. Willis, a photograph operator, of Washington City, employed by her, and a son, Hal Parsons, took up quarters in the printing room of the establishment in the top of the building, and refused to be ejected. In the face of the writ from Charleston the constables could not forcibly put them out so that for awhile the spoils appeared to be about evenly divided. The McLain-O'Neill party had possession of the lower floor, while the party of three in the printing room could be said to be monarchs of the surrounding roof tops.

General McLain was of the opinion that if they liked their sky-high quarters so well they could stay there, and in pursuance of that view he barred and locked all doors and other means of egress, making the top floor party virtually prisoners, except that a perilous descent could be made by the fire escape. Matters remained in this shape until late in the afternoon.

Mrs. Parsons desired to communicate with her little army. With heroism seldom displayed by a woman, she actually climbed up the fire escape and gave her commands, soon afterward returning by the same route. The enemy's commandant saw after a reconnaissance that the fire escape was an invaluable aid to the Parsons crowd, and as a consequence that means of egress was soon removed. This drawing of the siege lines made the little garrison actually prisoners.

The besiegers, however, were not satisfied, and the general in command of the McLain clan, had warrants issued for the arrest of the trio, charged with trespassing. These were placed in the hands of Constable Anderson, who served them on Parsons, Gordon and Willis, shortly before six o'clock, having first gained entrance to their citadel by means of the inside door. They were taken before Squire George Arkle, who told them they would have to give $100 surety for appearance before him this afternoon.

It developed that all except young Parsons were strangers in the city, having no friends who could be asked to go on their bonds. "I don't want to go to jail again," said Gordon; "I've been there several hours this afternoon. Besides I am hungry, and expect it is too late for supper at Mr. Franzheim's."

"I guess he could give you supper," said the squire. The squire finally determined to let the three men off on their own recognizance, and their promise not to re-enter the McLain building in the meantime. The coming developments will be eagerly awaited.

West Virginia Land.

Hon. C. P. Dorr, of Webster, came in yesterday. He reports increasing activity in land, considerable sales having been made recently at prices very satisfactory to sellers. Values along the Camden road are steadily appreciating. There is good demand for timber and arrangements are being made for a heavy production of lumber.

VERY INTERESTING MEETING

Of the Wheeling Teachers' Association Yesterday Afternoon.

The Wheeling Teachers' Association met yesterday afternoon, in the new Grammar room of the Fourth ward school.

The exercises were opened with music by the school, and prayer by Prof. Stevenson, of the Island.

Miss Ripperts, principal of Webster school, was first on the regular programme. In a well prepared paper she refuted the charge—made by a former pupil of the public schools—that the work done in the schools is not practical.

Miss Ripperts was followed by Mr. Nesbitt, who opened his remarks on Expression with an endorsement of Miss Ripperts' views on the practical use of grammar, then delighted his audience by his practical views of teaching reading and literature. His remembrance of the small text book studied in the public school was amusing to those yet handling the same book. He would recommend the studying of literature through the masterpieces of authors and not through such meagre text books.

It was with pleasure that the teachers listened to a former pupil of their school, who gives promise of future distinction.

Miss Scott, of the Eighth ward, being sick, Miss Hamilton, the principal of that school, read the paper prepared by her.

Many words of encouragement came to the teachers from this paper. "After many days" the returns must be expected.

Miss Barney, of Lincoln school, followed with a paper on "The Mission of Poetry." She defined the mission of the true poet to be that of raising man to a higher standard of being.

This was Miss Barney's first appearance before the association. She is a graduate of the Philadelphia normal school.

Prof. Hammond's music class added not a little to the pleasure of the meeting by three well rendered selections.

Metropolitan Muddle.

The hearing in the case against A. B. Witson, who has been acting as assistant manager in the local office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, charged with having reported insurance to the company fraudulently, was set for yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock before Justice George Arkle. Owing to the absence from the city of Colonel Arnett, the company's attorney, the case was continued until this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Messrs. Conitt and Dovenor are counsel for the defense.

All women who are overworked, "run down," or debilitated, need just one medicine—and that is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It is a broad statement, but facts bear it out. These are the facts:

If you're a weak and delicate woman, then the "Favorite Prescription" builds you up; if you suffer from any of the painful disorders and derangements peculiar to your sex, it relieves and cures. It invigorates the system, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength. All the chronic weaknesses, irregularities, and disturbances known as "female complaints" are completely and permanently cured by it.

These are facts, and they're strong enough to warrant the makers in guaranteeing their remedy. If it fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back. No other medicine for women is sold on such terms. That proves that nothing else can be "just as good."

YOUR MONEY SPENT,

Does not always mean your money invested, as it should. There is a great difference between spending one's money and investing the same. You may spend $100 in many different ways and still not have a penny invested as it should be. When you put your money in a savings bank it is invested, it bears interest, it is well expended; you get it back again. That is money invested as it should be. When you buy a suit of clothes made in the proper style and price, it is money invested as it should be. The kind we sell at the STAR, the proper style and at the proper price. When it comes to fit, we are there too, all the time and in every instance. Our tables are chuck full of the most beautiful line of Suits and Overcoats ever shown.
